This medicine contains codeine which is an opioid, which can cause addiction. You can get withdrawal symptoms if you stop taking it abruptly. If you feel you are becoming addicted, tell your doctor or pharmacist. You may need to reduce the dose to prevent this. This is because taking co-codamol can change the way alcohol affects you. This is because taking co-codamol can change the way you feel or be physically less affected by the same amount of alcohol. If you are pregnant or breast-feeding, talk to your doctor or pharmacist about whether it is safe for you to take co-codamol. Co-codamol may cause drowsiness, dizziness, light-headedness, and confusion. You may also experience drug withdrawal symptoms, which include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, and shivering or sweating. If you continue to take co-codamol for more than 3 days, you may experience these symptoms. You can report this side effect directly via the Yellow Card Scheme at: www.mhra.gov.uk/yellowcard or search for MHRA Yellow Card in the Google Play or Apple App Store.
